

'I'm out,' Rockefeller tells press

Former Vice President Nelson Rockefeller yesterday confirmed his intention not to seek further elective office after 36 years of public service.

"I'm out of politics," Rockefeller said simply at a brief press conference after a speech yesterday at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory.

Followed by a corps of reporters, the magnetic Rockefeller responded to questions about Arizona Republican Senator Barry Goldwater's reported tie with organized crime.

"I haven't any difficulties with Mr. Goldwater," he said, adding that "In this democracy, we have always had the promise that a man is innocent until proven guilty. I have no facts, no knowledge he is guilty."

Rocky had little comment on President Jimmy Carter's first few weeks as chief executive, except to say it was an "exciting time" and offered "hope for the future."

The former four-term governor of New York flew in on a helicopter from Concord immediately before the speech. The order of delivery was altered so Rockefeller could catch a plane to New York before a trip to the Middle East tomorrow, of which he was also questioned.

He will visit several countries in the Middle East on an unofficial basis. When asked if he would concentrate on peace or oil matters while there, Rockefeller said: "With peace, you've got a better chance of developing energy."

Rocky's kind words for Teller and the Lab

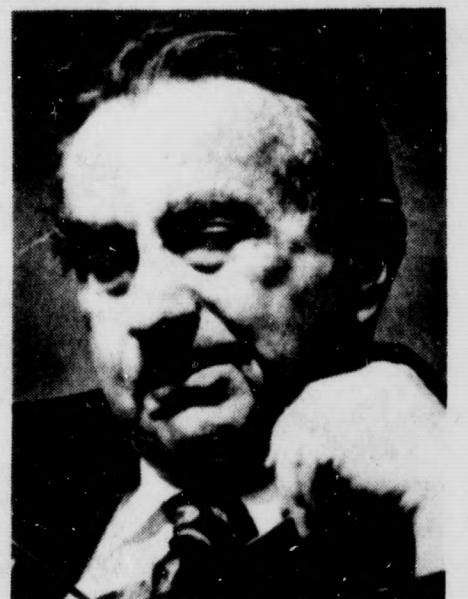

LIVERMORE — A new science wing at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory was dedicated yesterday with a speech by former Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, anecdotes by scientist Dr. Edward Teller, and leaflets from a group of anti-nuclear weapons demonstrators.

Fannie and John Hertz Hall, the new home of UC Davis' department of applied sciences, was officially dedicated yesterday before a crowd of about 200 in the Livermore Lab auditorium. The new wing will house about 100 UC Davis students studying graduate work in science.

Rockefeller received a solid round of applause as he stepped to the podium amidst the clicks and whirrs of photographers gathered nearby. The 68-year-old former governor accepted the invitation of his long-time friend, Dr. Teller, to speak at yesterday's ceremonies.

"The free world and freedom itself owe much to the genius and courage of Edward Teller. It is therefore highly appropriate that, here today, we not only dedicate a building, but also reaffirm our conviction of the importance of applied science to the continuing improvement of our way of life, and our future strength and security as the guardian of freedom in the world," Rockefeller read from a prepared statement.

Rockefeller defended the concept of nuclear weapons research and said that work must continue to protect the nation's freedoms and standards of living.

"Surely any reading of the history of freedom clearly demonstrates that economic and military power in the hands of free people is essential for freedom... the way for freedom to survive and to grow is not to reject the promise of science and the fruits of technology, but to adapt them for the benefit of the individual, of freedom, and the protection of our environment."

Students may walk Teachers balk at strike

While a sizable number of Foothill High School students are considering a walkout next Monday in protest of faltering Amador school district contract negotiations, the teacher union leadership has substantially backed away from thoughts of a strike and have now agreed to fact-finding.

Teacher unit leadership formally agreed to fact-finding on the issues of binding arbitration of grievances, salary and agency shop.

Between 600 and 800 Foothill students gathered in the Instructional Media Center Wednesday morning to discuss a proposal to walkout next Monday morning if a contract settlement between administration and teachers isn't reached by Saturday.

Students meeting with The Times yesterday said they wished to remain neutral on the nearly year-old contract talks but felt proceedings had deteriorated and could now threaten the orderly completion of the school year, especially for seniors.

Foothill will graduate its first senior class this June.

Principal Richard Carroll estimated the student gathering at between 500 and 600. The meeting started at brunch and was led by Tami Robertson, commissioner of student affairs. Though many students drifted away, a substantial number remained for upwards of an hour and a quarter.

Carroll said present student body president Roy Gobel would make an announcement this morning concerning the meeting.

Students are being dissuaded from considering any walkout and are being asked to remain neutral. Students had suggested to Carroll that Superintendent Bruce Newlin be invited to the campus next Monday morning but Carroll said that would not be appropriate. It was suggested Newlin be contacted directly.

Students at Dublin High School have also been concerned with the prolonged contract negotiations and

Son returns, finds father murdered

ALAMEDA — The husband of a Livermore woman was killed here early yesterday morning when he and his son chased a prowler from their apartment.

Richard J. Bischel, 45, husband of Blanche E. Bischel of Hillview Drive, was pronounced dead at Alameda Hospital shortly after 3:30 a.m., Wednesday.

Police said Bischel and son Richard Jr., 17, were awakened by a prowler about 2:45 a.m. The father chased the prowler over a fence and called back for his son to get a gun.

But when young Richard ran around the fence, he found his father lying in a pool of blood.

Bischel apparently died of multiple stab wounds in the chest, according to the county coroner's office.

He lived in the Alameda apartment to be nearer his work at Oakland's Diesel Injection company, according to a company representative, and commuted to Livermore on weekends to be with his family.

Alameda police are looking for a young, black male, about 5-foot, 10-inches, 150 lbs, wearing dark clothing.

The murder is the city's second this year.

BART link 'very much alive'

Alameda County Bureau
OAKLAND — There is no truth to rumors the Bay Area Rapid Transit District board has shuffled priorities and dropped prior pledges of rail extensions to the Valley and Eastern Contra Costa County.

The assurance came from BART Board President Barc Simpson yesterday after published reports he told the Walnut Creek Chamber of Commerce that priority extensions were no longer in sight. Simpson's position was echoed by Valley BART representative Bob Allen.

Simpson told The Times he "fully recognizes" the tax burden born by Eastern Alameda and Contra Costa county residents. The "concept (of a rail line to those areas) is very much alive," he said.

But his first push, he added, will be for Saturday service.

Private engineers hired by BART drew weighty plans for a $370 million extension from the Bay Fair station through Stoneridge, the county fairgrounds in Pleasanton, and on to Livermore.

Allen is against the plans as drawn by planners Livingston and Blayney, and De Leuw, Cather and Company.

Construction costs from the Bay Fair station through Castro Valley and the Dublin Canyon to downtown Pleasanton would total an estimated $190 million, with an additional $180 to build rail lines from Pleasanton to Livermore.

Allen said an elaborate system of subways through Pleasanton and an elevated rail line through Livermore jack up the costs.

It's "a matter of growth" that the Livermore director says he wants put to a local ballot.

Public works chief

Assistant Alameda County Director of Public Works Ed Meyer will take over as acting department head next month upon the retirement of current director Herb Crowle. Crowle, a 27-year county employee, is the senior department head in county government.

County supervisors made the temporary appointment this week. Meyer, 53, has worked for the county since joining the surveyor's office in 1949. He has a master's degree in civil engineering from U.C. Berkeley, and is a registered civil engineer. He became assistant public works director four years ago.

Meyer lives with his wife in San Leandro and assumes the $46,600 per year post April 1. County director of personnel Alfred J. Nardi said a statewide search for Crowle's permanent replacement has begun. Nardi will submit three to five names to county supervisors who will make the appointment.

Meyer has applied for the permanent position.

No house calls

Outcall message service will become illegal in Pleasanton March 28, the planning commission was notified by the deputy city attorney last week.

The city council outlawed it in an ordinance passed Feb. 28. Several planning commissioners commented that the ban on outcall message had nothing to do with the moral character of applicant Linn Young, but rather resulted from complaints by neighbors who thought traffic would increase in the neighborhood.

Commissioners Walt Wood and David Shepherd said they got many calls complaining the use would "change the character of the neighborhood." Commissioner Bill Jamieson wondered whether the commission "was being too heavy-handed in this matter."

Donation deadline

Saturday will be your last chance to make a donation to the Dublin-San Ramon Lions Club Youth and Community Activities fund-raising campaign.

The ticket booth will be set up between Payless and Mervyns in Dublin. Donations are one dollar per ticket. This contribution is tax deductible.

Proceeds will be used within the Valley to aid blind, deaf, youth organizations and other worthwhile charities.

Awards will be presented Saturday, April 23 at 10 p.m. at the Sheraton Inn, 1177 Airport Blvd., Burlingame.

The first award will be $5,000 to be disbursed at $1,000 per year for five years.

A 1977 Chevy Chevette will be the second award; third, $1,000; fourth, $500; fifth thru ninth, $100 each; 10th thru 100th award, $50 each.

Donations for tickets may also be made to local Lions Club members.

Cable TV back on air

Cable Connection returns to cable television screens at 8 p.m. today on Channel 10 in Pleasanton and Dublin after a week's absence due to technical difficulties.

The show also will be rebroadcast on Livermore cable Channel 12 at 8:30 a.m. Monday and Friday next week. This week's show will feature Livermore Mayor Helen Tirsell welcoming the program to Livermore and also interviewing Janet Newton of the Livermore Historical Society. There also will be tape from Livermore Area Recreation and Park District's Camp Bronco where kids learn to ride horses, shots of the "Peter Pan" dress rehearsal at Livermore High School last summer, and Frank Penna and Gary Moreland talking about Little League in Pleasanton.

Disposal extension

A state board Tuesday agreed to extend deadlines crucial for implementation of a Valley-wide wastewater disposal system.

The state Regional Water Quality Control Board voted unanimously yesterday to extend from 45 to 75 days certain dates that would guarantee federal and state financial assistance for the mandated project.

The brief action ratified a recommendation of a three-member subcommittee that met last week in Pleasanton.

Local officials still must select a final sewage export pipeline route before March 31. But a decision whether to place a bond revenue measure on the November ballot to finance the project won't have to be made until April 30.

Planners compare Petaluma

PETALUMA — It was a sloshy trip to Petaluma Tuesday, but Livermore's Planning Commission picked up some information almost as valuable as the falling raindrops.

The two cities have similar problems, being on the "outer ring of the Bay Area," as planner Candy Simonen described their geographic relationship.

The commissioners visited with Petaluma city staff several hours and attended a planning commission meeting that night. They compared notes on downtown development, septic tanks, lack of parking, growth policies, a transit system, sewage capacity and other problems.

They drove through the rain soaked streets of Petaluma in a zig zag course that took them past commercial areas and parks, next to bike paths like those in Livermore, and past signs that were perpendicular to the street (not allowed in Livermore).

The commissioners also looked at subdivisions, fences, residential side and back yard setbacks, and paused to glance at a fenced and graded river.

When they arrived at Petaluma City Hall, the Livermore planners met people wearing "Be a Water Watcher" buttons.

They zeroed in on a huge map of Petaluma's bus system, obviously impressed at the system's success, six routes and frequent stops.

Highlight of the day, according to Commission Chairwoman Brenda Souza, was a meeting with Janie Warman, management assistant who spearheads Petaluma's downtown redevelopment project.

Livermore has its own central business district (CBD) plan "on a back burner," but the Livermore planners walked away with a renewed enthusiasm for the plan after Warman outlined various funding sources available.

Warman outlined the Petaluma procedure of enlisting a citizen participation committee and told how merchants took the initiative to hire consultants. She also suggested the Livermore planners attend a UC Berkeley seminar on "tax increment financing."

Asked about condemnation problems in acquiring additional parking for downtown redevelopment, Petaluma Planning Director Ron Hall said, "Don't use that word here. Our redevelopment plan was passed on the basis of no condemnation. It is all voluntary. We enter the market place to acquire property, but do offer tax breaks."

Livermore planners mentioned the problem of absentee ownership and Warman said local business people persuaded the owners the plan would make their property more valuable and it would be worth their while to support it. "It worked."

Petaluma, a city of 35,000, was in the national spotlight last year when the U.S. Supreme Court agreed with that community's right to limit growth to 500 residential constructions a year.

Some of the Livermore contingent expressed disappointment with results of Petaluma's plan which divides the permits 250-250 between hilly west and flat east sectors. Most development has been in the flat area and a surplus of 1,680 permits has accrued because developers are not using their allotments. Petaluma officials may shift the allotments in a way that Souza and former Livermore Mayor Don Miller said would cause imbalance. Petaluma officials told of a good rapport with their county in dealing with septic tanks, some reportedly failing and causing similar concerns of Livermore — degradation of the underground water table.

The Petaluma people beamed with pride at their success with effluent handling. They first chlorinate the sewage, then dechlorinate it before dumping into the Petaluma River.

Petaluma holds a lot of its effluent in storage until wet weather when the waste can be diffused with rain water.

Another impressive move was Petaluma's "one stop shop" where they expedite the permit process by including planning, engineering, inspection and fire marshal in one location. City Manager Robert Meyer called it "very convenient."

Warman offered to travel to Livermore when the CBD plan is revived.

Petaluma City Manager Robert Meyer talked with Livermore's planners briefly.

Livermore planning commissioners Ray Brice, Don Miller, rear and Commissioner Bill Zagotta listen to Petaluma Planning Director Ron Hall (next to Brice).

LIVERMORE — "Not guilty" pleas were entered in municipal court yesterday in the case of three people accused of passing bad checks in Pleasanton March 8.

The defendants were arrested by Pleasanton police after a woman allegedly cashed a $355 check at Wells Fargo Bank, Santa Rita Road, using a Pleasanton woman's name.

Accused are Belinda Crockett McDuff, 26, of San Bruno; Reginald B. Dixon, 27, of San Francisco; and Anita Maria Eberhart, 23, of Las Vegas.

Attorney Dennis Ruel failed to persuade Judge Al Lewis to make another reduction in bail for McDuff, who faces similar charges in several other jurisdictions throughout the state.

Lewis had reduced McDuff's bail from $35,000 to $25,000 Monday and Ruel asked it be lowered to $15,000, noting the defendant's father died Saturday.

The trio will appear in court again next Wednesday when Judge Lewis will schedule preliminary hearings in the case.

In other court action: — Accused kidnapper James Saxby's case was continued to 9 a.m. next Wednesday for motions by Public Defender Cole Powell to have the district attorney's office turn over evidence to him.

— Lawrence Wayne Potts, 24, of Fremont, entered a not guilty plea on charges he fired two shotgun blasts at two security guards while they were crossing Calaveras Dam in Sunol Sunday.

Judge Lewis scheduled a preliminary hearing for March 28, reducing bail from $10,000 to $7,000.

The two security guards, W. Haverland and P. Adams, reported hearing the shotgun pellets whiz over their heads, 10 seconds apart. They later arrested Potts and reportedly confiscated a 12-gauge shotgun and a reportedly sawed - through padlock belonging to the San Francisco Water Company.

— The case of Tom Hans Albert, 19, Fremont, accused of felony drunk driving which resulted in two deaths during a Feb. 7 auto accident, was continued to March 23 for discovery motions by the public defender.

Albert told police he was rushing Wendy D. Hale, 19, to a hospital for treatment of a bleeding ulcer when his car spun on gravel and crashed into a concrete railing. Killed were Beverly Tidwell and Richard L. Engle, both 19. Four others received critical injuries.

gens of Fremont.

A rosary will be recited at 8 p.m., Thursday, in the chapel of the Callaghan Mortuary, 3833 East Ave., Livermore.

Funeral services will begin at 9:15 a.m., Friday, from the Callaghan Mortuary, then to St. Charles Borromeo Catholic Church, 1315 Lomitas Ave., Livermore, where mass will be held.

Interment will be in St. Michael's Cemetery.

Contributions in his memory to St. Charles Borromeo Church or to the Emergency Fund Center at 1564 First St. Livermore, preferred by the family.

But the threat of a strike by Amador district teachers appears to have abated since Monday.

A teacher representative council gathering Tuesday at Shannon Park Community Center in Dublin ended without any strike date being set. The council was scheduled to meet again today at Shannon but it would be largely informational in nature.

The feeling of both students and teacher unit leadership is that many of the 200-plus teachers in the district are edgy over what the administration might do in the wake of any settlement.

Enoch Haga, chief negotiator for teachers, said Wednesday the unit's most recent proposal, which calls for accepting the district's form of binding arbitration in return for certain stipulations, was "turned down flat" via mediator Mike West.

Details of that proposal were placed by AVSEA in all teacher mailboxes this morning.

The summary of the district's latest offer and teacher unit reaction states: "The district has offered advisory arbitration. AVSEA has asked for full binding arbitration. AVSEA's position is that the district's record of punitive, intimidating, and harassing acts against teachers requires binding arbitration."

"The district's present 'grievance policy' is inoperable because the district freely invokes policies, rules, and regulations which have not before been invoked; the district creates new 'emergency resolutions' at will; and the district could, at any time, adopt new regulations."

Nevertheless, AVSEA says it will accept the district's form of binding arbitration, which Newlin describes as "similar to that in the Murray School District," if the district, "as a gesture of its good faith," will first do the following:

1) Remove all letters of reprimand placed in teacher files since July 1, 1976 (Newlin answers that teachers held the minimum day last fall with full knowledge of consequences, and must be responsible for their actions).

2) Remove all letters threatening teachers in any way that have been placed in the files since the same date.

3) Rescind the eight emergency resolutions recently enacted by the board giving special powers to Newlin, allowing the use of security guards at schools, requiring duplicate affidavit forms from teachers after illnesses, etc.

5) Comply with the Superior Court order restoring steps and columns with interest, and agree to drop the request or rehearing and/or appeal (The administration has previously stated it would go ahead with its appeal).

The statement by Haga and Dave Woolworth concludes that "AVSEA will then sign a contract for one year that contains all of the items previously negotiated and upon which tentative agreement had been reached."

Carden teaching method

New private valley school opens

PLEASANTON—A new, non-denominational private school, keyed to individualized instruction, is now in session and using temporary quarters at Trinity Lutheran Church, Hopyard and Golden Roads.

An informational session, to explain the Carden method of teaching, is scheduled today at 7:30 p.m. at the church. Another meeting open to interested parents of K-6 children is set for Monday, March 28 at 7:30 p.m.

The school is directed by Norman and Maria Zimmerman, who formerly supervised and taught in a Carden school in Sherman Oaks for 13 years. They have two students at present but plan a summer program from July 5-29. A fall program, also for K-6 children, is planned and 12 students are already enrolled.

The Carden method of teaching was originally conceived by Miss Mae Carden, an educator who studied in Europe and then began her private elementary school in New York in 1934. Since 1949 she has dedicated her life to helping other educators implement the Carden method of teaching, and presently there are 500 such schools in the United States.

The Carden method, according to an adherent, is a phonetically - specialized method organized to capture the child's imagination using the form of art and play. It separates different sounds and reorganizes them in such a way that the child is greatly stimulated and learns rapidly to attain a high level of academic performance. Each sound is digested before the next sound is introduced. This sequence of learning allows the child to obtain a phenomenal reading vocabulary of 2,500 words by the end of first grade.

Zimmerman taught in the public schools for 12 years, and together he and his wife supervised and taught in the Carden school in Sherman Oaks, located in the San Fernando Valley.

They are dedicated to the Carden philosophy of individualized teaching and invite any interested persons to visit their school.

For further information or questions about possible enrollment, call the Zimmermans at 846-7171.

Host families needed for foreign students

LIVERMORE — Gail Zwakenberg of 715 Canterbury Ave. is in charge of the Valley's latest foreign student program.

The American Institute for Foreign Study (AIFS) provides opportunities for foreign students to be guests in local homes for 17-day visits.

"This year," says Gail, "the Summer in America program has been specially developed to provide the opportunity for Japanese students to spend a short time learning about our culture and way of life."

"The Homestay idea usually involves 40 students, ages 14 - 20, from professional upper - middle - class homes. The young people had four to six years of English."

"The students will be going to school every day at a local Livermore school for three hours and this year AIFS will sponsor a weekend at camp in Yosemite National Park. I will be planning four excursions to points of cultural, historic or scenic interest during the time the students are here and there will be parties, cook - outs and so on.

"But what we need is families. The students are here for such a short time that most host families find the time goes by just too fast. We hope the host families will just relax and enjoy their student."

"I have never had such fantastic reports from families that had kids last year in other programs. The 17-day stay seems to be very popular with host families."

Foothill band seniors vie for scholarships

PLEASANTON — Fifty-two applications have been mailed to Foothill High School seniors who qualify for consideration for the Tami Ann Schlies Memorial Scholarship.

Tami was an ardent participant in the Foothill marching band before succumbing to cancer in February of 1976. Last September a ceremony was held to dedicate a trophy case which holds Foothill marching band's latest trophy and personal items belonging to Tami. Also, an invaluable book on music was given to the school library and a $100 scholarship is soon to be awarded.

To be considered for the scholarship, the seniors must have been a member of the band for at least one semester during the last four years.

Anyone believing they qualify should contact Don Paukert, chairman of the Tami Ann Schlies Memorial Fund, at 846-6410.

The award will be presented at the Awards Ceremony June 7 by Dr. and Mrs. Edward Schlies. Tami's parents have announced that the scholarship will be an annual award dedicated in her name.

Robbery suspect frees tot

A beer-drinking diabetic robbery suspect released his infant hostage to a police officer late Wednesday, but continued to hold a wounded man and his wife.

The gunman, identified by police as Michael Guile, handed the baby through the window of a second-floor apartment to an officer waiting on the stairs outside. The condition of child was unknown.

Earlier, a package of medical supplies was sent up, and officers said it contained insulin, a drug used in the control of diabetes.

"He's got diabetes," Capt. Jack Hughes of the California Highway Patrol said. He didn't know if the medication was taken by mouth or injection.

In a telephone interview with The Associated Press shortly before dusk, Guile said he didn't expect to get out of the apartment alive, and indicated he was ready to kill the hostages in his bid for freedom.

"I only know I don't want to go back to prison for the rest of my life," he said.

Murray's search on official

DUBLIN — "The question is how to you get from 100 to 1."

Dr. Donald Leu, an education department administrator at San Jose State University, meeting with the Murray School District Local Advisory Committee last night, said developing a criteria would ease the problem of screening 100 candidates to a final choice.

Leu and the committee are charged with finding and screening applicants for the superintendent's position, vacated in January by Dr. Donald Williams.

The LAC has selected Lizann Kendall and Steve Wallace as co-chairpersons.

Leu said he has already received 44 inquiries about the position. Some 100 applications are expected.

Committee members and others present last night filled out, by priority, what they considered the most important attributes of a superintendent.

The search for a new superintendent is to be culminated in late May by a meeting with the four or five finalists, as determined by the committee.

Next panel meeting, open to all MSD residents, is Tuesday at 4 p.m. at Fallon School library. Another meeting will be held the following day, same time, same place.

District residents who wish to participate in the selection process should attend one of the LAC meetings.

El Charro drill team wins honors

The local group was bested by Chinese Central High School Drum Corps for first place.

Whale protective group

They are standing by an informative display they set up about whales in the Dublin Public Library. It will be on view until March 17.

Amador plans advanced placement applicants

Students interested in taking one or more advanced placement examinations this May should contact Barbara Swanson at Amador Valley High School by March 24.

The examinations will be given during the week of May 16-20. They assume at least a year of intensive college-level work and enable students to obtain advanced placement and/or college credit at 1500 colleges throughout the nation, including UC Berkeley, Stanford, Duke, Northwestern, Harvard, and major state universities.

A number of Amador students took the exams in English, Biology and American History.

They received college credit for them. With the exception of those in art, the examinations are part essay, part objective. They are graded on a scale of 1 to 5, with grades of 3, 4 or 5 generally receiving advanced placement and appropriate credit.

Advanced placement is a program of the College Entrance Examination Board. Amador currently offers a course in Advanced Placement English. Not only does it provide high school credits but it offers an excellent opportunity to prepare for the Advanced Placement exam and for work at the university level.

Students interested in signing up for courses next year should talk to their counselors now.

Valley View sets workshop for reading

PLEASANTON — A workshop entitled "Thinking My Professor Never Told Me" will be held at Valley View School Saturday March 26 from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The workshop is being presented by Ralph Williams, reading specialist at the Fremont Unified School District and author of "Teacher Tips" and other reading publications.

Purpose of the workshop is to learn new ideas and activities from "old" ideas — flash cards, choral play reading, how to use hand signals as a teaching tool; how to prepare "play at home" activities for parents to use with their children.

Valley View principal Jim Scott arranged for the workshop, having heard Williams presentation at Cal State Hayward.

Teachers and aides are encouraged to attend the workshop. Anyone interested should call Lori Carter at Valley View School 846-2863.

Granada vice principal switched to elementary

LIVERMORE — Gary Kenny, vice principal of Granada High School for seven years, has become the second top Granada administrator to change schools in a year.

Kenny moves over to Marilyn Avenue Elementary School today to become "interim acting principal." He replaces Walt Capri, who has been moved to the district office to be director of elementary education.

Granada lost principal Jack Lee last fall when their long-time leader was transferred against his will to a newly created district office job.

If not selected to be permanent principal of Mary-lin, Kenny expects to return to his former job next fall.

Meanwhile, Granada dean of students Marie Costick becomes acting vice principal. Her duties will be assumed by Hal Sinclair, currently a half-time dean.

Kenny, 46, began his Livermore career as dean of boys at Livermore High School nine years ago. Previously he taught English and physical education in South San Francisco, Castro Valley and Hayward high schools. This is his first assignment at the elementary level.

LAA's spring show nets talent galore

Bob Hodgson, Pam Della and Rusty Walker (above) judged the 248 art entries March 12 and unanimously declared Dave Huddleston's "Snowscene," which placed first in the landscape, seascape category, "the most outstanding in the entire show." After viewing every category, spokesman Rusty Walker added, "The best work in the show is watercolors, but there is a generally poor showing in the oils." Wilma Myers (below) won top honors in the textiles and stitchery category with a handspun shawl.

Professional artists Pam Della, Rusty Walker and Bob Hodgson selected the winners from 248 entries in the Livermore Art Association's annual spring show recently.

In the amateur category, they are as follows:
Landscape, seascape, all media — Andrew Sargent (Pleasanton), first, second and third prize; Honorable Mention, Gale Hudson, Hazel Hawbecker (Livermore residents), Mary Crooks (Pleasanton).

Portrait, Figure and Still life, all media — Carolyn Trotter, first, Gena Kirby, second (Livermore residents), Mary Crooks (Pleasanton), third; Honorable Mention, Ms. Trotter, Ruth Eichorn, Mike Tasano.

Pottery, Jewelry, Sculpture — Robert Cox, first, Dave Clark, second (Livermore residents); Honorable Mention, Barbara Edwards, Livermore.

In the general category, the winners were as follows: Landscape, seascape, all media — Dave Huddleston, first, Rob Anglin, second (Pleasanton), Barbara Lubke, third; Honorable Mention, Muriel Doggett, Makiko Marshall, Don Larsen (Livermore residents), Doug Desmond.

Abstract — Margo Kirkewoog, first, Don Larsen

(second, Livermore residents), Margaret Goodman, third; Honorable Mention, Karen Jenkins (Livermore), Warren Wade (Pleasanton).

Textiles — Wilma Myers, first, Adele Nickison, second (Livermore residents), Elizabeth Frazer, third (Pleasanton); Honorable Mention, Bill Ostle (Pleasanton), Pat Clarebout, Thale Struthers (Livermore residents).

Pottery — Don Homan, first, Jan Wax, second, Dick Hill, third (Livermore residents); Honorable Mention, Pat Kelley (Livermore).

It takes a lot of people to organize an art show — especially when 129 artists are involved. Bill Childers, Ron Hawley, Don Larsen and Rob Anglin help arrange entries in the pottery and sculpture category for the judges careful scrutiny.

Livermore's Margo Kirkewoog placed first in the abstract category with her "Aqua Terra." The judges, all professional artists themselves, spent over four hours at the laborious task of selecting winners from mediums ranging from acrylics to wood carving.

Sister city dinner

Yukiko Sakakura

LIVERMORE — A potluck dinner sponsored by the Livermore - Yotsuka-ido (Japan) Sister City Organization April 1, will feature professional Japanese entertainer Yukiko Sakakura.

The 6:30 p.m. event will be held at the Livermore High School student union building.

Yukiko will appear in a varied program of Japanese folk and popular songs. Her last valley performance in November drew a "standing room only" audience.

Also appearing will be Mrs. Iyako Hashimoto of Fremont, playing the koto, a traditional long stringed Japanese instrument.

The dinner, chaired by Flora Critchlow, will feature dishes of Japan, and other international recipes of the Orient. This is the organization's first fund-raising effort, with some of the money raised to be used to host a delegation of three from Yotsuka-ido.

Yotsuka-ido Mayor Teiichi Saito, his town manager and another person will travel to Livermore April 18-20. Yotsuka-ido will host a 10 day visit by eight Livermore citizens in August.

Teiichi Saito

Tickets are $2 and are available from Edy Cohen, 443-5290, or Jean Warf, 447-6938. Beverages will be supplied, but people attending are asked to bring a dish serving 8 to 10 people.

Tickets will be available on a first-come, first-served basis until March 28.

Lab pickets protest UC arms role

A few pickets lined up in front of Fannie and John Hertz Hall yesterday as the new wing to the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory was dedicated in the name of higher education and enhancement of the nation's defense potential.

Leaflets from the University of California Nuclear Weapons Lab Conversion Project asked that the building be dedicated to "to life not death." The one-page handout depicts cap-and-gowned graduates, diplomas in hand, walking into a building and exiting as bombs.

The leaflet argues that the degree of pomp surrounding yesterday's dedication may have been overblown for a "relatively small university building that will serve only 100 students at present."

"It appears that the university and Lawrence Livermore Laboratory may be trying to play up the significance of this new building in light of the statewide movement which has strongly criticized UC's role in the operation of these labs. Is this an attempt to fool the public into believing that the Lab is really a great educational asset to the UC system?" the leaflet asks.

The paper's sponsors, a statewide coalition of students, UC faculty and staff, scientists and other individuals, argues that the graduate research program "serves in part as a training ground for future weapons designers. It is a cozy relationship that helps the labs to recruit new talent."

The group asks that nuclear weapons work at LLL be phased out and the facility be converted to "humane and constructive uses."

Welcome to Bob's

Rose McNealy, cashier, waits at the cash register to greet customers on their way into Smorga Bob's, 4193 East First St. in Livermore. The popular restaurant has become prominent in Livermore by serving delicious food at lunch and dinner for moderate prices. The number of selections, where you help yourself, are outstanding — and the motto at Smorga Bob's is "All you can eat." There is always a discount for senior citizens. Another important point: the single price paid at the door includes everything — desserts, beverages, and so on.

Dedication

ment. This means that, if freedom is to survive, free people must continue to avail themselves of military as well as civilian usages of science and technology.

"There is a real danger today that the 'balance of power,' not only in terms of military strength per se but in technology and technical capability, is shifting from the free world to the totalitarian world. This is perilous not alone for us but for freedom everywhere. "We cannot afford to allow overwhelming military superiority and overwhelming technological superiority to pass to those who seek power for domination rather than for peace and freedom," he said.

Rockefeller praised the work of the Lawrence Livermore Lab as "world-renowned for its scientific endeavor and applied science achievements." "Here in Livermore I find the finest American tradition given new vitality: a confidence in the pursuit of knowledge and its practical application for the betterment of people everywhere; and a commitment to keep America in the vanguard of science and technology, both for our national security and the well-being of mankind throughout the world."

"Without the work of the (Livermore) Laboratory which both competed and collaborated with Los Alamos, the first weapons laboratory, I hate to think of where the world would be today. "This building is dedicated to the teaching of peaceful uses of technology as well as to the teaching of the uses of technology in defense. All knowledge can be used for either of the two purposes. There is no such thing as peaceful technology that has no military potential. There is no such thing as a weapon that cannot be beaten into plowshares."

Streamline figure with VCSD

DUBLIN — If you're a young lady 13 to 19 years old interested in streamlining your figure, now's your chance to join the slim and trim sessions beginning today at Shannon Park Community Center in Dublin.

There is no charge for these sessions being sponsored by the Valley Community Services District Recreation Department. They will be held Wednesdays from 7 to 8 p.m.

Participants are invited to bring their special skills in calisthenics, ballet, modern dance and yoga.

In addition, guest instructors will be on hand periodically to help with new ideas and develop refined techniques.

For further information, please contact the Shannon Community Center at 828-7711.

Potted

Beginning pottery students Linda Davis, Joy and Denise Diamond learn both hand construction and wheel skills in Ann Henderson's Monday pottery classes at Shannon Community Center. From 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., the ten classes are available for $20, with firing and clay included. Ms. Henderson has taught pottery for three years and also teaches many children's classes. New students will be accepted until April 4. For more information call the Center at 828-7711. Other adult classes offered by the Valley Community Services District, starting this week, include cake decorating, disco dance, folk dance, needlework, pottery and gourmet cooking.

Emergency center brass

A new board of directors has taken over management of the Emergency Fund Center, which provides immediate short-term aid in emergency situations and operates a thrift shop for budget-conscious shoppers. Richard Quinlan continues as president, while Bertha Shook steps in as vice president. Betty Johnson as secretary and Freida Bland takes the treasurer's position.

Other directors are Josephine Falcon, Sharon McCollough, Maria Anaya, Jolene Abrahams and Mary Ann Hannon. Located at 2564 First Street in Livermore, the Center relies primarily on donations of time and money from the community. Beginning Thursday, March 17 the Center will be open from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m. For more information call 447-4186.

Spring recreation starts in Dublin

DUBLIN — Let the Valley Community Services District Recreation Department entertain and instruct you with their new Spring classes at Shannon Community Center where registration is in progress for fee classes.

You can continue to sign up weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., or mail in your registration.

All sign-ups are taken on a first come, first served basis since classes are limited in size. After classes are filled, waiting lists will be kept and new classes will be started when possible.

No classes will be held during Easter vacation, April 4 thru April 10.

There are classes for children, teens, adults and senior citizens. Fees and times vary according to what is being offered.

There are also drop-in programs for adults and seniors, ski trips for teens and adults, a spring aquatics program and special Easter week activities.

For more information go to Shannon Center, 11600 Shannon Ave., in Dublin and pick up a brochure listing all of the various offerings or call the recreation department at 828-7711.

The downfall of the Dons

On Sports

Hal De Julio saw the KO punch coming. He ducked, but the USF Dons didn't.

"I could see it the first game of the season," admitted Danville's basketball genius, who prepared himself 31 games ago for the powerful blow that struck Saturday in Tucson, Arizona.

"I predicted it," he added. "What happened to them Saturday happened to them all season," continued the man who has recruited some of the top names at USF over the years, including three All-American from the 1956 NCAA title team — the last year USF came home with the National championship.

De Julio wonders if it'll happen again. "This team probably had the greatest talent that has ever been on one floor," explained De Julio of the 1977 version. "But it wasn't the greatest defensive team."

No team ever, and that includes the great ones at UCLA ever matched up to the one the hilltop school produced in 1956, says De Julio, a legend in his own right. He was an inspirational playmaking guard from 1946-49 for the Dons, and was responsible for bringing such talents as Mike Farmer, Jerry Mullin and the undestructible Bill Russell — all All-Americans on the '56 club — to San Francisco. He says he sought out high calibre prep basketball talent as a "hobby" once he left USF.

"It was all unofficial," he remembered, "to help the school the school I love."

His list of recruits hardly stopped after the great 1956 club. De Julio was pulling them from in like a flashy fishing lure. If it weren't for him, Bob Galliard may never have had the chance to coach at USF. De Julio, now a financial tax planner in Danville, saw Galliard in action at Harry Ellis in Richmond one day and put a USF scholarship in his face the next. He did the same with former Golden State Warrior Joe Ellis, Don Lofgran, Frankie Evangelo... and a list of others.

That's why it hurt painfully Saturday as De Julio watched in agony as the "Runnin' Rebels" from Nevada-Las Vegas ripped the San Francisco team by 26 points on shots that seemed to come from the parking lot.

"I don't think the Dons know how to play defense," said De Julio, a USF All-American. "I never saw a NCAA champion who couldn't play defense. If you don't play defense, you'll never make it."

USF didn't, he argues.

He had doubts in the Dons' offense all season long, too.

"They had no offensive plays to go to when teams would press them. Santa Clara proved that, Portland, Santa Barbara... all those teams almost beat them. This team was lucky."

The Dons were ranked No. 1 in the country for most of the year, beating only a few of the nation's best clubs, while handling most others with laughing ease.

But down the stretch, most notably when Norte Dame scarred a 29-game win streak in South Bend, troubles within — personal problems — came to a head. De Julio knew all about that, too. James Hardy felt unwanted, Marlon Redmond had his woes, team morale had crumbled... "Galliard said that he wasn't sure if his team was mature enough to win the NCAA," said De Julio.

"If you think that way, that's how the team is going to play. You can't be making excuses. The lack of discipline was quite apparent. I knew they wouldn't make it (all the way to the NCAA finals). Even if they went into it with a 30-0 record, there's no one that could convince me they'd do it. They would have to be lucky and luck doesn't win five straight games."

"They didn't look like a happy team," he continued. "They looked like they carried the weight of the world. They looked like the most unhappy bunch you would ever want to see. There wasn't that much closeness. They just didn't have it."

Take it from the USF basketball genius.

Grizzly nine rated second

WALNUT CREEK — The East Bay Prep Writers, meeting here yesterday, have tossed a lot of weight on the shoulders of the California High School baseball team.

The Grizzlies have very little place to go but down in the East Bay Baseball Poll, the first rendition of which was released this morning.

Three first place votes boosted the Cal nine into second place, just one point behind Berkeley.

Two other East Bay Athletic League teams made the top 15. Amador Valley was rated 10th, while San Ramon snuck into the 15th spot. Livermore was given honorable mention status.

Angels win

Despite 11 points from Mary Weaver the Hot Shots fell to Joe's Angels, 27-20 in Valley Community Services District women's basketball action recently.

A balanced attack was the key to the Angels' win. Phyllis Watkins led the winners with right markers. Ella Roviore and Bonnie Lemons each added six points and Linda Bowers had five.

The victors jumped off to a 15-11 halftime advantage and outscored the Hot Shots 12-9 in the second period.

Dons stun Earthquakes, 3-1

SAN RAFAEL — They couldn't get going in the lumpy rodeo pen at Livermore's Robertson Park. If the San Jose Earthquakes expected similar terrain in water-slingy Marin County, then they were disappointed last night.

A larger hurt, however, had to be giving up more goals to a collegiate team than they had in two games with North American Soccer League foes.

The result of damage was a 3-1 loss to defending NCAA champion USF on San Rafael High School's water-logged football field.

All the Dons' scoring came in the second half. With 26:20 to go Mel Roche took a short pass from Andy Atuegbu and fired the ball off 'Quake defender Laurie Calloway into the net from three yards away.

With 14 minutes to play, Atuegbu received a red card after a scuffle with San Jose's Tibor Molnar. That forced the Dons to play the remainder of the game with just 10 men.

They killed the penalty in a fashion that would have made the Montreal Canadians proud.

With 12 minutes to go Anthony Gray got a pass to freshman Alex Nwosu, who spun away from San Jose's Dave Kemp and jammed the ball into the lower right hand corner of the net.

Seconds before the end of the game Roger Alphonso finished the scoring with a net-finding half volley.

Although Ilija Mitic put the 'Quakes ahead 1-0 10 minutes into the game with a 20-yarder into the lower left-hand corner of the Don net much of the action was crowded into the final 10 minutes of the first half.

With nine minutes to go before intermission, USF's Mel Roche took a right-to-left crossing pass from flashy fullback Tony Igwe and missed wide to the left. But he followed up and got another chance to set something up but Tibor Molnar cleaned the zone for San Jose.

A few moments later, Paul Childs stole the ball in the USF goal area but Mitic's shot drove wide to the right.

Then came the outstanding play of the game. Igwe turned on some flashy dribbling, dropped off a heel pass to John Brooks who launched an on-the-money 45-yard pass to Roche. But Mel was a step ahead of Earthquake defender Dave Kemp and offside was called.

The 'Quakes will host the Washington Diplomats at Balboa Stadium in San Francisco Sunday at 2 p.m.

A's trade Garner, get Medich, Giusti

OAKLAND — Phil Garner, the outstanding young infielder seeking the financial status several of his former Oakland A's teammates reached last fall as baseball free agents, went to the Pittsburgh Pirates in a nine-player trade Wednesday.

"I'm sorry to lose him," A's owner Charles O. Finley said in Chicago. "But Garner told me, 'So many others seem to be doing it, I'm going to play out my option and make some big money unless you sign me for what I want.' I tried to sign him. I was forced to do what I did."

Garner began contract negotiations asking for $1.8 million over four years and his last request was for an even million dollars, an $800,000 bonus for signing and $50,000 salary for four years, Finley said.

The A's received six players from Pittsburgh including starting pitcher Doc Medich, who was 8-11 last year after winning 49 games in three seasons with the New York Yankees. Medich, 28, said in Florida after learning of the trade that he was considering leaving baseball and concentrating on his medical school studies.

The A's also acquired 37-year-old reliever Dave Giusti, 5-4 last year, and four young players Finley called excellent prospects — pitchers Rick Langford

Rader's blast tops SF, 7-5

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Doug Rader's three-run homer to left center field in the eighth inning gave the San Diego Padres a 7-5 exhibition baseball victory over the San Francisco Giants here yesterday.

Rader, the veteran third baseman, also drove in a run in with a triple in the second inning.

Dave Heaverlo took the loss for San Francisco as the Giants held a 5-4 lead before the shaved-headed right-hander entered in the eighth. He allowed four hits in absorbing the defeat.

George Hendrick singled to open the Padres winning inning and one out later Mike Ivie singled to set the stage for Rader's blast.

Bill Madlock went two-for-four for the Giants, including his first extra base hit of the spring, a double.

Derrel Thomas was two-for-five while Larry Hernandez had a triple for the Giants and catcher Marc Hill.

Willie McCovey aided his comeback bid with a run-scoring double in the fourth.

Ed Halicki started for the Giants and went four innings, allowing six hits and three runs. Frank Riccioli toiled through the fifth, sixth and seventh, and was tagged for four hits and three runs.

Dave Winfield had three singles for the Padres, who also got four good innings from Cy Young award winner Randy Jones, rapidly recovering from off-season surgery. The win went to San Diego's fourth pitcher, Tommy Moore as Dan Spillner also pitched well.

Ricupito blanks Pokes

Washington High southpaw Mike Ricupito made the most out of the two first-inning hits his team provided for him in blanking Livermore, 4-0, yesterday in a pre-season baseball tilt on the 'Pokes diamond.

The Huskies scored twice in each of the first two innings and thwarted two belated Livermore rallies in making up for a 14-4 loss to another East Bay Athletic League club, California, last Friday.

Ricupito, who pitched two shutout innings against California, settled down to fan 13 Cowboys yesterday, not giving up a hit until the fifth inning. After walking leadoff batter Charlie Bockover to start his stint, Ricupito never again issued a free pass and threw no wild pitches.

Livermore received excellent pitching from returning veterans Jeff Benton, Jeff Perry and Greg Frates, but the defense failed in the first two stanzas and gave the Huskies the only runs they would need.

John Camille began matters for Washington by stroking a one-out double.

Dunbar honored tonight

The Times regrets that due to an error the wrong date was given on the reception for Jim Gault and Diane Dunbar, Pleasanton's talented gymnast in yesterday's paper.

The reception for Gault and Dunbar will be held at 7 p.m. tonight at Sage Bookstore at 4307 Valley Ave.

Gault is Dunbar's coach and has written a book on women's gymnastics.

Kevin Meany followed with a booming triple that scored Camille and came home on Ken Stange's ground out.

In the second inning, Yogi Guterrez was issued a walk by Benton and was subsequently wild pitched to second. After Steve Wellen fled out to center, Benton beamed Bill Aboumrad with a pitch just after Guterrez had advanced to third on a passed ball.

With runners on first and third, Benton attempted to pick Guterrez off third but threw the ball away, Yogi scoring. Aboumrad came around to third on the play.

With two men out, Benton walked Bob Fudenna to put runners at first and third again. This time the Huskies pulled a double steal on the 'Pokes and it worked. Aboumrad scoring as Livermore catcher Jeff Bernacil's throw to second was off the mark in trying to catch Fudenna. The play made it 4-0 Washington.

The game drifted along with Ricupito firing up a good mixture of fast balls that had Livermore batters on their toes and a breaking pitch which enticed the 'Pokes to go fishing flat-footed.

Livermore finally broke the ice in the fifth inning on an infield hit by Rick Gildea. Two outs later Designated hitter Kevin Fitzpatrick laced a solid single to right, but the rally died when Tim Palmer struck out.

Livermore left two more runners on base in the sixth. John Bachleda, who led the 'Pokes in hits despite batting ninth, singled to lead off the inning and was forced at second on a grounder hit by Bockover.

Dave Dearborn then rapped a solid double to right-center field that put runners on second and third, but the rally once again went for naught as Bob Tarte fanned and Gildea was thrown out on a chopper in front of the plate.

Loading the bases in the seventh inning, the 'Pokes had the tying run at the plate but settled for nothing. Cary Dean and Tim Palmer reached via infield bloopers and Bachleda cracked another single. Bockover then hit a sharp grounder, but right at shortstop Meany, who gobbled it up and tossed to second for the force out to end the game.

Sports file Mike Dayton

Fame's bad side

Mike Dayton

Consider the prestige. Think about the recognition. Instant fame and an international following.

Mike Dayton thought about all that stuff. Those were some of the things that drove him through the painstaking, methodical task of pumping his body full of muscles. He wanted to be Mr. America, and last September, the 28-year-old Concord resident realized his goal.

There were some things he hadn't thought about, though. He didn't think much about having trouble finding a day or two of peace. He didn't consider having to answer to people calling from all over the country with requests for appearances.

He didn't think he'd have to hire an agent to handle his schedule. And he didn't think he'd be a hotter television talk show guest than the Gabor sisters.

Now he doesn't have much time to think about anything else.

"There's the hectic side to it that I can see now, which I didn't before," Dayton admitted. "It's not all that it's made up to be. There's never having a moment of peace."

His first nationwide appearance after becoming Mr. America was on the Merv Griffin Show. Now the Dinah and Johnny Carson shows are after him.

And of course, so many publications want a piece of the action. Dayton's given more interviews these past few months than Jimmy and Billy Carter combined.

"I've got a lot going on," he understated. "The Enquirer magazine (National Enquirer) was just here last week and they're doing a story. 'People' magazine is doing something. 'In the Know' magazine has a story on me this week."

He's beginning to lose count. So he had to hire some help.

"I've got a Hollywood agent. She's Stacy Weitzman, who is Henry Winkler's (Fonzie on Happy Days) real life girlfriend. Dayton said.

If it happened on the "Happy Days," Dayton might expect a fight from a jealous "Fonz." But in real life, neither Henry Winkler nor anyone else in his right mind would start trouble with Dayton, who's built like, well, like Mr. America.

"My life's changed, but I don't think I've changed," said the guy who spent 12 years pushing that heavy bar.

"It's kept me busy. There's a lot more to it than I ever realized. I've done a lot more charity work than I thought was involved. I did something up at Stanford Hospital, and I've been to a lot of schools for shows. It's all been free."

He does point out, however, that many activities are financially rewarding. But he seems to enjoy the other rewards, too.

"I've gotten a lot of personal satisfaction out of it. Just to go to Stanford Hospital and help cheer up some of the kids that are probably going to be there the rest of their lives is reward enough," he said.

Although he's already got the prestigious award of "Mr. America" in hand, Dayton is still obsessed with a goal. He wants to be able to perform 10 feats of strength no other man can do.

He's still working to polish such acts as snapping handcuffs off his wrists, popping basketballs, bending coins, and otherwise punishing both his body and the equipment he works on. His latest act is to bend a one-inch thick steal bar over his knee.

He said he hopes his frantic pace can slow enough for him to concentrate on these things, as well as his hobby of Kung Fu.

"After I won Mr. America I took some time off training because it was such a long road to the top, and I need a rest. I had been working out 3½ hours a day. But now I'm only spending two hours or an hour and a half."

Dayton is booked to appear at New York's Madison Square Garden June 26 to perform some of these feats of strength. In the meantime, he's got to prepare himself for upcoming television appearances.

"My first time on national television was such an experience, because I've always seen it from an audience standpoint," Dayton said in reference to the Merv Griffin show, on which he appeared in September.

"I don't really know how to describe the feeling. Just standing there behind the curtain, waiting in the backstage. It's something, that moment you walk out there, and there's the introduction and the cameras. After we got rolling it was okay. But it was quite an experience," he said.

An experience that will probably come as naturally, before long, as bench pressing 450 pounds. But in the long run, it might not be nearly as much fun.

"I don't think I've had a whole week," Dayton related, "where something doesn't come up. Just about every night I get calls from people all over the country."

It's a nice place to visit, as they say. But Dayton might just be one of the happiest guys around in September, when the next Mr. America is crowned.

and Doug Bair and infielder-outfielders Tony Armas and Mitchell Page. Veteran infielder Tommy Helms and 22-year-old pitcher Chris Batton accompanied Garner to the Pirates.

Garner has spent his first two major league seasons at second base, but the Pirates will move him to third, the position he played in college and the minors. Chuck Tanner, the A's manager last year, now manages Pittsburgh.

The 27-year-old infielder batted .261 and drove in 74 runs last season.

He was the only remaining member of last year's starting Oakland infield. First baseman Don Baylor, shortstop Bert Campaneris and third baseman Sal Bando were among the six A's who became free agents after the season and signed lucrative contracts with other teams.

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: There's a rumor that a man in our neighborhood is a child molester. I can't believe it since he looks just like any nice normal person. He's married and his wife is active in several local women's clubs. No one has any real evidence and I have a feeling many people would be afraid to take action even if they had. What should I do about this since I have children? How can you tell a man is a child molester? — P.A.

DEAR P.A.: I suggest you do nothing under the circumstances, other than to take normal precautions and make certain you know where your children are at all times. All children should be warned of dangers but this should be done in a way that won't frighten or lead to distrust and lack of faith in all people.

This man in your neighborhood may be totally innocent. Rumors are, in themselves, dangerous and can start for ridiculous reasons, some quite unrelated to any evil actions or intent.

Dr. Joseph Peters of Philadelphia reviewed the characteristics of a number of sex offenders and found that child molesters seem to view themselves as inferior and less able to attract adult women. This doesn't mean, however, that child molesters are unmarried. Most are married and aren't what the average person would consider mentally ill. They're likely to look like anyone else. They are usually emotionally dependent men whose wives are domineering. According to studies, their wives may also withdraw completely from the marriage and refuse to have sexual relations. The man may then turn to alcohol which often plays a part in the molestation of children.

You can protect yourself and your children by making sure they trust you enough to feel safe sharing confidences with you. Encourage them to report anything unusual to you immediately.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My husband died six months ago and we all feel the terrible loss. My youngest son, however, seemed to accept his father's death with relative ease. Directly after the funeral, he played with his friends almost as if it had never happened. I think the older children were shocked although no one mentioned it. Lately he has been behaving so badly that even his friends feel he's not himself. He's quick tempered and seems to get angry for no reason. It isn't like him and I wonder if it could have anything to do with his father's death even though so much time has passed. — D.L.

DEAR D.L.: You didn't mention your son's age but the reaction you describe isn't uncommon in young children. Their sense of loss may not appear for months, and then it may show up in withdrawal, temper tantrums, sudden outbursts of noisy anger or in boisterous play. Some children may express their feeling of deprivation and helplessness by attacking older brothers or sisters, or even their own friends.

It is important to encourage your child to talk about his feelings so he can eventually express his grief in words. You may help him articulate his feelings by deliberately talking about his father. Encourage him to recall incidents and to talk about his feelings of love, and of hate, if he wants to.

I realize that this may be difficult for you, but if you can find the strength to explore these areas with your son, you'll be helping him as well as improving your relationship. Remember, the loss of his father is a major blow to his feelings of security. He needs your help to rebuild his sense of self-esteem.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — After 15 months of being told there was nothing wrong with our listless inactive daughter we took her to a medical center and they found she had an underactive thyroid. She had no teeth, had difficulty sitting up and, of course, did not walk. Her bone age was 3 to 6 months. She is on two-and-a-half grains of thyroid and in four months has lost weight, has two teeth and is walking.

Recently I read that hypothyroidism in children is very serious because it retards physical and mental growth. I am now ready to know what would have happened had we not found out something was wrong with our baby. Her body was badly deformed and now she is just beautiful. I would appreciate any information you can give me.

DEAR READER — I am glad your little girl is getting along so well. The thyroid hormone does work with the growth hormone to produce normal physical and mental development.

Low thyroid function may be difficult to diagnose in the early months of life. In fact, it is rarely recognized at birth. The diagnosis is even more difficult if the thyroid deficiency is not complete.

The doctor may suspect low thyroid function because the child is unusually sluggish. The features of the child may be changed because of the low thyroid function. The fat inactive baby with little interest in his surroundings is a result of the low thyroid hormone production.

The features differ depending on when the thyroid deficiency occurs. It can begin in the uterus before the baby is born.

The retarded growth can be rather striking. And it is true that mental development may be affected. It is important to make a diagnosis as early as possible to prevent this.

I cannot say whether or not your child will have a problem in mental development. It depends upon too many factors, such as the severity of the deficiency and when it actually started. If the thyroid gland was completely non-functioning in the uterus before birth, even giving thyroid hormone at birth might not have altered the outcome. If the problem began after birth, then your baby may develop normally. Time and good treatment will tell. Meanwhile her development should continue to be rapid to make up for lost time and she will no doubt be active enough to keep you more than busy and happy.

Q. "WHY DO WE HAVE DIFFERENT SEASONS?"
JULIE STORMONT
OCEANSIDE, CA

A. THE CHANGE OF SEASONS IS CAUSED BY THE TILT OF THE EARTH'S AXIS, WHICH EXPOSES EACH HEMISPHERE TO MORE SUNLIGHT DURING PART OF THE YEAR THAN DURING THE OTHER.

The four seasons — spring, summer, autumn, and winter — are caused by the movement of the earth around the sun.

The earth makes one trip, or revolution, around the sun each year. The earth is tipped slightly as it moves along its path around the sun.

Each pole tips toward the sun part of the year and part of the year away from it. When the North Pole is tipped toward the sun, the northern half of the world receives more sunlight. Then it is the summer season in the northern half of the world. Then the southern half of the earth, which is turned away from

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South's three-spade response to North's two-diamond opening showed a seven-card suit and denied possession of an ace or king anywhere with two or more cards in his partner's suit.

North was able to count 11 sure winners at notrump or spades. At notrump the 12th winner would only come from a successful heart finesse. At spades it could also come as North's fifth diamond could be set up. This made the spade slam a very good one and North bid it.

This hand helped decide the national knockout team championship of 1933 because it was bid at one table while the other table stopped at a mere game contract.

The slam failed to make. The late Louis Watson, whose death at the age of 29 just two years later deprived bridge of one of its very best and very nicest players, happened to sit West.

Louis was noted as a sound steady player. He could have made the normal lead of the queen of diamonds. If he had done this south would have found out about the 5-1 diamond break before having to do anything about hearts and taken the heart finesse. But Louis knew it was time for something brilliant. He opened the deuce of hearts. Poor South thought a while, called for dummy's ace of hearts and had to go one down.

Holdup on vote by mail in Pleasanton

PLEASANTON — The city council decided to delay for two weeks the question of whether to conduct an election by mail this spring for the fire and police tax override.

Vice-mayor Ken Mercer and Council Member Joyce LeClaire were all for the mail-out election, but others want to do more research to see if the system is cheat-proof.

Their fears centered on the possibility of whether persons could collect ballots from apathetic registered voters and mark them their own way. Also the system of matching voters' signatures to their registered signatures may be too time-consuming, they said.

Alameda County Registrar of Voters James Riggs said yesterday that the system is practically 100 percent cheatproof. The voter must sign his or her name across the envelope flap, just as in current absentee

Planners watching their Ps and Qs

PLEASANTON — The planning commission watched its language in a couple of respects last week.

Commissioners agreed to change a provision concerning "watchmen" so that it refers now to "guard personnel" or something like that, just so it is a non-sexist word.

The language change was part of a commission action to permit a watchperson's house in conjunction with a commercial development. The commission will have review over each specific application so that someone doesn't try to bring in a large, single family home as a loophole to combat the sewer connection shortage. George Canessa asked for the ordinance change so he can employ a guard in conjunction with a storage yard at the old Berry Farm. He won approval for the storage yard, too. He will fill in the Berry Farm's swimming pool and raze the old buildings there.

In another language-related item,

Commissioner Bill Jamieson said the city ought to go through its general plan and change the phrase "sand and gravel harvesting" to "strip mining". "Strip mining" is the term the federal government uses in describing it and that's what it is, not some high falutin' public relations phrase suggested by the sand and gravel industry, said Jamieson.

Other commissioners agreed in sentiment, but Deputy City Attorney Harvey Levine said it would involve going through the city's 600 page general plan and making the changes. Nothing really got resolved about it, but the larger issue which brought it all up — changing the designation of more than 50 acres of sand and gravel harvesting — strip mining land northeast of the city to residential development designation was approved unanimously. The land is outside the city's 1996 urbanization line, so it won't see home development before then, at least not as an adjunct of the city.

League holds tax forum

Prominent representatives of the farming, business and private sectors of the community will evaluate current property tax practices in a public forum Thursday, March 24 sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

The forum commences at 7:30 p.m. at the Granada High School Little Theater. Participants, who register with a 50-cent fee, will receive an information packet.

Speakers who will present their perspective on property taxes, and propose alternatives, include Vintner Joseph Concannon, Rancher A. M. Hagemann, Jr., Businesswoman Linda Gala, Realtor Harry Regan, senior citizen Dolly Rothamel, and Dr. James McFarlane, a county property owner.

A reply to their comments will be given by professional tax experts.

Assemblyman Floyd Mori, former economics professor, will explain the state's position on property taxes and assessments. Vincent Frevola of the Tax Review Board will explain the role of the board, to be followed by comments from Emanuel Gorland, Director of Community Development in Livermore.

Moderator of the forum will be Mary Ann Hannon of the League of Women Voters. She will open the program to questions and comments from the audience after an initial 20-minute presentation by the speakers.

Coordinator for the event is Polley Schmiedding, assisted by Margaret McClelland, Jean Urban, Mary Ann Hannon, Sherry Woodruff, Mary McCarthy, Carol Gerich and Mary Ellen Kordas.

Insurance break for cities due?

Help may be on the way for Valley governmental jurisdictions who have to pay higher and higher insurance rates.

The Legislature's Joint Committee on Tort Liability is investigating ways of restructuring the state's insurance liability laws as part of its drive for civil tort reform.

Valley Assemblyman Floyd Mori is a member of the joint committee. He said Friday in a press release that local governments are paying "larger and larger chunks of their revenues for protection against lawsuits" and noted motorists are hit annually with increases in their auto insurance premiums.

City of Livermore's liability coverage costs have increased more than 300 percent since 1974, said Mori. Valley Community Services District's excess liability coverage rates have doubled in the past year. Pleasanton pays nearly double what it did in 1974 on auto and other insurance.

Gambling could hike city revenues

Gambling in Nevada and a new version of the employee tax were being touted in Sacramento this week as ideas for "increasing revenue at the local level."

The proposal for "an alternate tax base" came from Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy in the wake of stiff legislative resistance to those "employee tax" moves advanced by Oakland and other cash-short cities. McCarthy, and other legislators, is opposed to allowing individual city action in new tax fields. He did not make clear what "alternatives" he has in mind but it will not likely include any new levies on property.

Some variation of the federal income tax, applied state-wide and redistributed to the cities, has been put forward as one likely proposal.

Licensed gambling is the choice of Senator John Holmdahl (D - Castro Valley) as a major source of new revenue for California. Holmdahl wants a constitutional amendment that would allow counties bordering Nevada to approve gambling casinos of the Reno and Lake Tahoe variety. Tahoe basin would however be excluded from the list of possible California gambling areas.

A majority of voters in any city or county would first have to vote approval of the gambling centers. Revenue raised from gambling would be devoted "solely to provide homeowner and renter property tax relief."

Fire and vandalism insurance costs rose 70 percent in five years for the Livermore School District, even though the deductible went from $1,000 to $10,000 in 1977. The cost of trampolines liability insurance went so high ($5,000 per trampoline per year) that the district has had to eliminate their use in school programs.

Pleasanton Elementary School District experienced a 300 percent increase over the past five years and Murray School district liability costs have doubled over the past year.

Election feasible but...

PLEASANTON — Council Member William Herlihy's suggestion that the LAVWMA board be elected rather than appointed may be legal, but practically speaking, it seems a bit late to have any real effect on the Valley's wastewater problems.

That was the opinion of LAVWMA's legal counsel, Ken Scheidig, yesterday. The timing of solutions to the Valley's wastewater problems is such that many important decisions about the project already have been made and others will be completed by Sept. 30, said Scheidig. A cursory reading of the government code reveals that probably LAVWMA could be converted to an elected board, but even if it can, all the elected officials could do is supervise the project already set in motion by the city council members and VCS board members who now populate the LAVWMA board, said Scheidig.

Another problem would be political opposition from the agencies. Even if the elected city and VCS officials didn't mind being replaced on LAVWMA, they probably would not go for a Valley-wide election similar to Zone 7. However, a district for each agency with two representatives from each district might overcome that objection, said Scheidig.

County work deal

Alameda County Bureau OAKLAND — Six additional courtrooms and a handful of offices in the county Hall of Justice in Hayward will cost $1.18 million, some $422,300 less than the architect's estimate.

The contract was awarded this week by county supervisors to a joint venture of the S. J. Amoroso and Verrett construction companies of Foster City. Only one of the six bids submitted was from an Alameda County contractor, The Pacific Co. of Berkeley, whose $1.3 million bid was highest of the six received.

The contract was questioned when supervisor Fred Cooper feared the Verrett Construction Co., a minority firm, might have been brought in as a minority "front" to win the contract.

But public works department officials assured the board the two firms have worked jointly on other projects and that the county's minority employment criteria would be met.

Two minority subcontractors, Uneda Glass and Eastmont Carpet, are listed by the general contractors.

LIVERMORE — If you're ready for something different, try Arroyo Seco School's International Smorgasbord "Dime-a-dip dinner" and old-fashioned community sing.

The frolic is scheduled for 5:30 - 7 p.m. Monday, March 21, in the Almond Avenue School multi-purpose room. Each parent is asked to bring a main dish, salad and bread or dessert.

Food is 10 cents per scoop. A cake walk and "good old community sing" will climax the evening, which is being sponsored by Arroyo Seco Parents and Teachers to raise money for school equipment.

THE ACTION

462-4165

Classified SR staff name rep

San Ramon Valley Unified School District classified employees working in maintenance, operations, transportation and custodial departments have elected a single organization to represent them in contract negotiations with the district.

Service Employees International Union, Local 390, will be the exclusive bargaining agent for the four departments. Local 390 won the election with a majority of 65 votes out of the 121 employees who voted.

California School Employees Association received 47 votes; Local 1, 5 votes; Teamsters, 3 votes, and no representation, 1 vote.

The election of Local 390 establishes two bargaining agents for the classified employees of the school district. The California School Employees Association was recognized as the exclusive bargaining agent for clerical, food service and technical employees by the Board of Education on February 11.

Negotiations between the two representative organizations and the school district administration have yet to be scheduled.

CSEA represents 135 classified employees and Local 390 will now represent approximately 139 employees.

Trustee issues farewell

LIVERMORE — He didn't come to the school board meeting to deliver it in person, but Dr. James McFarlane, former board president and trustee for eight years, issued a farewell letter Tuesday night.

By a 60 - vote margin, McFarlane lost his bid for a third term on the board in the March 8 election. "It is with some sadness, but with no regrets, that I leave the board of education after having devoted eight years of my life to serving the children and the community of Livermore," he opened his four - paragraph letter.

"As you well know, it is not easy to make some of the decisions which one is called upon to make as a board member, but I can honestly say that I have done the best I could. Some decisions, though politically unwise, had to be made as a matter of conscience, with the overall welfare of the children and the community as a whole in mind. I hope that no one can ever say that they didn't know what my position was.

"...As everyone does who serves in public office, I have also managed to acquire my share of detractors of one type or another. To them, I would like to say publicly that I forgive them for the things that they might have said and done without justification during the recent campaign for re - election...

"As a parting gesture, I should like to ask the board to honor their public trust in regard to the money which the district has received from the local builders, of which some $458,000 remains unspent, and use at least the bulk of these funds for the repayment of building bonds for which the district is indebted. This is a legal use of these funds, and would show good faith to the people of Livermore, and would both shorten the repayment period for our outstanding bonds and reduce the tax rate. Should the board choose to act upon this suggestion, and have a resolution drawn up to return these monies to the people of Livermore, I shall be happy to thus cast my vote at any meeting called, or adjourned to, prior to April 1 when my term expires..."

McFarlane's parting request was met with a comment from Bruce Jamieson, assistant superintendent for business, that they may not be able to "track down" any of the $11 million in building bonds sold last year because brokers have sold and re - sold them since that time.

Jamieson's suggestion was to save about $200,000 a year in operating money by buying portable buildings the district is now leasing, using builders' donations for the purchases.

Now down to three members, the school board read a resolution praising McFarlane's work: "He has always considered the educational advancement for all students as being his first priority... He has always been forthright and honest in his relationship with school district employees, both certificated and classified... In his outstanding leadership as a member of the board of education, he gave unstintingly and without reservation of his time with no thought of personal advantage..."

The two new board members, Gail Sidhu and Jan Brice, will be seated in the next few weeks. Sidhu, taking the seat vacated by trustee Ken Engelund, who resigned last December, will probably be installed at the March 29 special board meeting if the county Registrar of Voters has by that time certified her election.

Since McFarlane's term is not up till April 1, Brice will wait until the first school board meeting of April — moved up from the fifth to the 12th of the month because of Easter vacation — to join the governing body.

Introducing Datsun's new B-210 'Plus'.

The high-mileage car with all kinds of nifty extras.

46 MPG Highway, 30 MPG City.

These are the 1977 EPA estimates for our newest B-210 model. Your actual mileage may differ, depending on how and where you drive, the condition of your car and its optional equipment.

Great mileage is just the beginning. Because the B-210 'Plus' is the product with a lot of pluses. As you will see, we didn't strip it down to give good gas mileage. We dressed it up even more.

Plus 5-speed economy.

Among other things, it comes with a 5-speed. Which works like overdrive. Thus, less fuel is used. And there's less wear on the engine.

Plus extra value.

Now about those other things. Steel belted radial tires, sporty stripes, fully reclining bucket seats, carpeting, tinted glass, electric rear window defogger and power-assist front disc brakes are included in the B-210 'Plus'.

So you see, while this car gets lots of miles per gallon, you get lots of car.

Plus tough.

From start to acrylic paint finish, it's tough all over.

For example, its solid unibody is all steel from hood to hatch.

In short, Datsun's new B-210 'Plus' has all the pluses of the other four B-210 models—Honey Bee, the 2-door, 4-door and hatchback. Plus a lot of pluses all its own.
